PROVINCIAL SYNOD

PROVINCIAL SYNOD.

The Anglican Provincial Synod devoted the forenoon of its morning session yesterday to the discussion of missionary problems and finances. The Archbishop presided.

The Bishop of Grafton (Dr. Druitt) pointed out that a large proportion of missionary work was done by the laity, and that the Church, and he expressed the hope that it would be possible to unify and consolidate the various work instead of having six or eight organizations, each with its own name.

The Bishop of Bathurst (Dr. Lewis) said his diocese had adopted the principle of a social assessment for foreign missions, and as the result the contributions to foreign missions had increased about 150 per cent. in five years. While each parish knew its own contribution, he was under the system, the contributions were not the most satisfactory. The apportionment, Dr. Lewis mentioned that regiments, the greater contribution they could make to foreign missions. The Bishop of Madras said he was profoundly thankful for the unflinching awakening to the realization that the world was not a place to be conquered, but a great deal of the lack of faith in dealing with spiritual problems and the way in which to solve the "social problems," he said. "We shall now have the opportunity to do more for the nation of the world."

The Bishop of Armidale (the Right Rev. W. H. Westcott) said that the problem of getting workers for the mission was returned to the comparatively late age at which many of the young men were engaged, and emphasized the desirability of training young workers. He suggested that the mission was now in a position to make an appeal for vocation to the nation, and suggested the formation of groups of young men with the view of training them to be leaders or intended to enter the ministry.

The Archbishop emphasized the need for action in missionary work. After the war the bishops of the province to take care for the observance by Church people of the three-day fast of Lent, consisting of prayer and fasting to Almighty God, the nations may be turned to repentance, and the present troubles may have a happy termination. (2) That the heads of other Churches, who are members of the same, shall take the heart of the whole State may be touched.

CONDEMNATION OF GAMBLING.

In the motion of Archbishop Delane, it was resolved—“That this Synod, recognizing the alarming increase of gambling in the nation, and the enormous expenditure of money for unworthy means that are employed in collecting money for religious patriotic purposes—

STIPENDS OF THE CLERGY.

Archdeacon P. B. Joyce moved,—“That in view of the high cost of living, this Provincial Synod of New Brunswick be of opinion that it is necessary that the stipend of any clergyman in arrears of his stipend for at least two years, and that each of the members be respectfully asked to forward a contribution to the same.”

the churches where this minimum stipend of paid, and to take any other steps than those now desired for the better support of the same named." The Archdeacon said that the Sydney diocese there were men who got £25 a year, and some of them got £30 or £40 for rent, and in some cases the endowment was less than that. The result was that the country clergy were poorer than was at the present time, and it was a disgrace that so many of them were. The Bishop said that the magnificent property belonged to all kinds of funds for worthy objects, but for the supporting of the clergy he motion was carried.

THE C.E.S.

was recommended by the motion of Archbishop Davies.—That this Provincial Synod commend to the clergy and laity of the diocese the C.E.S. as the best means of preparation for handing to the men of Church for prayer and service."

ARCHBISHOPRY.

The Bishop of Graham's proposed the fallow-motion, which was carried.—That the Principal syndes of New York City, and the following: Archibald, to the Metropolitan hospital committee for the kindness extended the other day to the Red Cross; to Mr. J. H. Burdett, for acting as chairman of committee; and to the secretaries for their efficient services, were received with acclamation. He synd closed with prayer.

Gunner Hamilton, of Lincoln, was M.C. The band, composed of Fred and Ed. Hinchman, and the Allie's Girls sang and waltz. A feature of the dance was the decoration of the committee members' hats with streamers. The staff of Callan Park Hotel helped and a social hour was held. The dance ended dancing, singing, and raffles. The committee was headed by Mrs. H. H. Hinchman. A very pleasant evening was spent and the result was a check for $100.00, which resulted in a cheque being handed over to the Property Fund. MR. BROOKFIELD, M.L.A.,
FINED.

Before Mr. Clarke, S.M., at the Central Police Court yesterday, Percival Brookfield, who represented the Hill in the Legislative Assembly, was prosecuted under the War Precautions Act on a charge of having on March 27 made a statement to the press in which he was recruiting of his Majesty's Forces. The offence was alleged to have been committed in the manner which was delivered in the Sydney Domain.

Mr. E. A. Barton (instructed by the Commercial Union Assurance Co., Ltd.) appeared

The statement alleged to have been made contained the following passages:—
 "We can only say never again must Australia be embroiled in wars in Europe. They are going to ask us to allow them to govern us, to put us in their power here that they may feel the war position in Europe. I say that the manhood who would sit such a message to the Empire, and not an assistance to it. These—scheming men take the pick of Australia, and drive them into France to get killed."

Chows of an old thing to work for a few days. I belong to the stop the war party and stop it quickly. Billy Hughes says that if any man gets up and says anything detrimental to recruiting he is going to put the law into motion. In spite of Billy, and in spite of all the powers of reaction, I am going to have my say. All these men, every soldier, who goes to the front are fools of the great National party. Take a man to sea, and teach him, and it should be so.

Defendant claimed the right as a member of the State Parliament to discuss any subject of public interest. The police had not given a fair report of his speech. Only a few detached sentences had been read in Court. Put together those sentences made it appear as if he had delivered an anti-revolutionary speech.

Mr. Clarke, S.M., fined defendant £100, with the option of six months' imprisonment. The Crown would be allowed £6 12s costs.

The defendant also was bound over on entering into recognisances, self in £200 and one surety of £200, under the provisions of section 25 of the War Precautions Act, to be of good behaviour during the continuance of the war, in default, six months' hard labour.

Brookfield said he would appeal against the conviction.
